Viet Reds Near Saigon; Intensify Offensive

SAIGON (AP) — More than 1,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese pushed to within 15 miles of Saigon today, seized a group of refugee villages in Bien Hoa and fought their way to the edge of the busiest American air base in South Vietnam on the fourth day of the enemy offensive.

Early tonight U.S. and South Vietnamese forces were still trying to root out the stubborn enemy soldiers who withstood five assaults by South Vietnamese rangers and deadly rocket and machine-gun fire from American helicopter gunships.

Across South Vietnam, the Communist command intensified its offensive. Its troops pounded more than 50 towns and allied base with rockets, mortars and ground attacks Tuesday night and today.

The heaviest enemy thrusts hit the sprawling American military complex at Bien Hoa Long Binh, a cluster of air bases, major supply depots and the tactical operations center for the 3rd Military Corps; and Cu Chi, the biggest American infantry base in the arc north of Saigon.

Allied spokesmen said more than 3,000 enemy troops had been killed since the offensive began Sunday, but American and South Vietnamese casualties also were soaring. On both sides they appeared to be the heaviest since the enemy offensives last February and last May.

South Vietnamese military headquarters said 417 government troops had been killed, 1,383 wounded and 60 were missing. There was not complete count of American casualties, but U.S. spokesmen said more than 200 American troops had been killed and several hundred wounded. Civilian casualties jumped to nearly 200 dead and more than 500 wounded after delayed reports told of a North Vietnamese attack on a government refugee village in the Central Highlands in which at least 78 civilians were killed and 100 were wounded.

Allied spokesmen reported more than 1,000 enemy troops killed during the past 24 hours in heavy fighting in the areas just north of Saigon, in the Mekong Delta south of the capital and along the populous coastal lowlands south of Da Nang.

About 800 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong from the enemy's 5th Division tried to attack the corner of the Bien Hoa Air Base but were stopped when American helicopter gunships spotted them with their big searchlights.

The enemy troops ran into South Vietnamese marines already staked out, and by mid-afternoon, at least 53 enemy bodies had been counted and 13 of the attackers had been captured.

AP Correspondent George McArthur reported from the scene that the Vietnamese marines were trying to root out elements of one Viet Cong battalion dug into the edge of Ho Nai, a refugee village between Bien Hoa and the U.S. Army headquarters at Long Binh.

"We are not using mortars or gunships because it is occupied," said Capt. Scott Bentley of Richmond, Va., an adviser to the Vietnamese marines.

McArthur reported another big fight raging in the village of Gia Kien, just off the corner of the Bien Hoa base, an area where about 500 Vietnamese service and refugee families live.

The village was taken by about 400 enemy troops. South Vietnamese Rangers tried five (Continued on Page 18)

State Takeover Of Programs Eyed By Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is considering taking over operation of locally-run and costly welfare programs in exchange for farming out several federal programs to the states.

Administration sources reported President Nixon had such an exchange in mind Feb. 14 when he said the new Office of Intergovernmental Relations will pave the way for eventual transfer of some federal programs to the states. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew heads the new office.

States would not necessarily save money, but would take over programs they are better able to administer. What the federal programs would be has not yet been specified.

Also being considered by the administration are proposals for federal tax revenue sharing with the states, block grants giving states more freedom to decide where they want to use funds, and consolidation of the hundreds of grant-in-aid programs supplying federal money to states and localities.

The possibility of program exchanges is one of the subjects under consideration here this week at the mid-winter session of the National Governors Conference. The Nixon administration is using the meeting to make a major effort to improve federal-state coordination.

Four cabinet members met Tuesday with their counterparts from many of the states. On Thursday, an all-day session will give governors and cabinet members a chance to explain their problems to one another.

Voting Age Proposal Advances

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If a prediction made by Ohio House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess turns out to be correct, Ohioans will vote in November on a proposal to lower the voting age from 21 to 19.

Kurfess, R-38 Perrysburg, predicted Tuesday that the House will adopt a resolution to lower the voting age. The Senate approved it 30-3 Tuesday.

"Its chances in the House are good," Kurfess said. "There should be sufficient votes to pass it."

If adopted by the legislature, the matter would be put on the November ballot in the form of a constitutional amendment.

There is considerable official sentiment for its passage. Both political parties and Gov. James A. Rhodes are supporting the resolution.

Organizations are springing up in high schools and universities throughout Ohio to work for its adoption.

One senator predicted in floor debate that if the legislature passes the resolution, youth may take up the cause as they did for Sens. Eugene McCarthy and Robert Kennedy in the presidential campaign.

"If the young people of Ohio get out and work like they did in New Hampshire for McCarthy and in Indiana for McCarthy and Kennedy, I think the people of Ohio will give them the vote," said Charles J. Carney, D-33 Youngstown.

NIXON CONFERS WITH WILSON — During his second stop on his eight-day European visit, President Richard M. Nixon confers with Prime Minister Harold Wilson in the Long Gallery in Chequers, England, official country residence of prime ministers. Earlier Nixon told NATO in Brussels, Belgium, that the U.S. plans to negotiate with the Soviet Union "on a wide range of issues."

Nixon Assures Bonn Of Support

BONN, Germany (AP) — President Nixon received the West German government's approval today for his planned negotiations with Moscow and in turn assured Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger the United States will support Germany in her negotiations over Berlin.

A German government spokesman said Nixon told Kiesinger he will make his trip to West Berlin Thursday not as a provocation but to show the United States is standing by Berlin, whatever the West German government decides to do about holding its disputed presidential election there next Wednesday.

It was widely assumed the two statesmen also discussed the diplomatic hassle between President Charles de Gaulle of France and Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain concerning the future of the Common Market and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The spokesman said Nixon expressed the view the difficulties in Europe were transient and "no critical situation had arisen."

Kiesinger, in turn, agreed that exaggeration should be avoided and there was no reason for hectic reaction. He said a united Europe was the aim of Bonn's policies and differences over methods and form of this unity were secondary.

Most newsmen at the briefing took these remarks to refer to the French-British quarrel.

Kiesinger told the President he and the German people view cooperation with the United States as an essential element of political life.

The spokesman quoted the chancellor as saying: "We recognize that we cannot eternally depend on the protection of a big brother. We realize we must make our own substantial contribution in this respect."

Coming from London for the third stop on his eight-day European visit, Nixon once again dedicated the United States to the reunification of its divided World War II foe.

In a brief airport exchange of greetings, Nixon told Kiesinger and Foreign Minister Willy Brandt: "The commitment of your nation and mine to the ultimate reunification of Germany—that cannot change."

The President added that the United States and West Germany also could not change their commitments to the "common defense" and the "orderly construction of a durable peace in the world."

A similar expression of the U.S. commitment to the defense of West Berlin is expected when Nixon visits the city Thursday and once again looks at the Communist wall dividing it.

Eshkol Dies; Israel Faces Crisis

Apollo Dangers Are Outlined

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The launch director for the Apollo 9 flight says "without a doubt, this is the most complex mission we've ever attempted."

Rocco A. Petrone, director of launch operations at the Kennedy Space Center, said in an interview Tuesday that because Apollo 9 is an earth orbit mission, the American public may not think it is complex in comparison with the Apollo 8 moon orbit journey.

"On Apollo 8," Petrone said, "it was a tough mission because we were sending men around the moon for the first time. But on Apollo 9, he continued, there will be times when the difficulty in returning the astronauts safely to earth will be greater."

He noted that for the first time, man will fly in the lunar module (LEM), the fragile, spidery vehicle designed to land men on the moon.

It is a ship intended to operate only in outer space and not in any atmosphere. Thus, it cannot re-enter earth's atmosphere and during a rendezvous exercise, two astronauts must remain in the main Apollo ship or be stranded in orbit.

Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and civilian astronaut Russell L. Schweickart have been assigned the critical 10-day earth orbit trip which is to start with the blastoff of a Saturn 5 rocket at 11 a.m. EST Friday. The astronauts will ride in the Apollo command module with the LEM resting in a compartment behind them.

On the third day, Schweickart is to take a two-hour space walk, transferring from the LEM to the command module and back to the LEM.

The most critical part of the mission occurs on the fourth day, when McDivitt and Schweickart are to separate the LEM, fly 109 miles away and then execute a complex rendezvous mission to rejoin Scott.

Rice University President Quits Before Ascension

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Dr. William Masterson, newly appointed president of Rice University, became a victim of the current wave of campus unrest as he bowed today to student-faculty protesters and resigned before ever taking the post.

About 1,000 of the 2,900 students and 200 faculty members at the Houston, Tex., school massed last Saturday to protest an alleged breach of agreement by the university trustees in selecting Masterson.

They charged the Rice trustees picked Masterson without consulting with a nine-member student-faculty presidential recommendation committee even though such consultation had been agreed upon.

Masterson, 54, told the trustees that to accept the presidency would "create unnecessary dissension" in view of the controversy over the method of his selection. He will continue in his present post as president of the University of Chattanooga in Tennessee.

Sirhan Attempts To Plead Guilty; Lawyers Intercede

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Enraged because his diaries with their murderous thoughts are being aired in court, Sirhan Sirhan wants to "give up and go to the gas chamber," his lawyer says, by pleading guilty to killing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"He's blown his top," said Grant B. Cooper after Sirhan's courtroom outburst—the second of the day—caused adjournment of Tuesday's afternoon session when it was barely getting started. "He's blown his top and we're trying to control him."

After court, the four-man defense team and Sirhan's 55-year-old mother spent more than an hour with the 24-year-old Jordanian. "When we left him," said Cooper, "he was real calm. We hope he'll be calm Wednesday."

Of a possible plea of guilty—with the verdict of life imprisonment or death still in the hands of the jury—Cooper said: "We're not going to let him...as lawyers we're not going to let our client run the case. He doesn't know what he's doing."

In court, as a handwriting expert was preparing to testify, Sirhan rose white-faced and trembling, a pleading hand extended to judge Herbert V. Walker, and said: "Your honor, forgive me for interrupting..." At that point Cooper asked for the adjournment.

When the defense lost its fight against admission of the diaries—on grounds of illegal search—Sirhan raged that "if he was going to be tried this way he might as well give up and go to the gas chamber," Cooper said.

Again and again, in handwriting that ranged from scrawled to agitated scribble, Sirhan built in the notebooks a drumbeat of threats against Kennedy and, in one case, then U.N. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg. In one sequence Sirhan wrote of the "glorious United States," in another he used an obscenity as an adjective.

"My determination to eliminate RFK is becoming more of an obsession," he wrote on one page dated May 18, 1968. "RFK must die. RFK must be killed. Robert F. Kennedy must be assassinated...Robert F. Kennedy must be assassinated before June 5, 1968..."

Sirhan shot Kennedy the morning of that day. If he confessed his reason into the diary, it did not show in the eight pages made public Tuesday.

The defense is not denying that Sirhan killed Kennedy and doesn't plan much challenge to the prosecution's case of premeditation.

Expect Dayan, Allon To Vie For Top Post

JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier Levi Eshkol, the second man to head Israel's government during the Jewish state's turbulent 21-year life, died today of a heart attack, the government announced. He was 73.

Deputy Premier Yigal Allon is expected to take over the government, possibly remaining at the helm until general elections in November.

But Eshkol's death raised the prospect of intense political rivalry between Allon and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan at a time of grave crisis for Israel, with Arab guerrilla attacks increasing and with such nominal Israeli allies as the United States openly opposed to Israel's policy of retaliation.

Eshkol succeeded David Ben-Gurion as premier in 1963 and headed the government during Israel's lightning victory over the Arabs in the June 1967 war. He had been ill with pneumonia several times in recent months. On Feb. 3, he collapsed with a heart attack after a crisis shook his cabinet. But his doctor, Prof. Moshe Rachmilwitz, said the premier had recovered completely from the first attack and "yesterday acted as chairman of a ministerial committee."

Rachmilwitz said the second attack occurred about an hour before Eshkol died at his home in Jerusalem at 8:15 a.m. His wife was at his bedside. Four daughters also survive him.

In Damascus, the Al Fatah guerrilla organization claimed Eshkol was fatally injured when Al Fatah commandos made a rocket attack on his country home Monday night.

"This is the most ridiculous and childish announcement that the primitive Fatah propaganda's wild imagination has ever fabricated," said Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman David Rivlin.

The Israeli government had reported the attack on the Degania Bet kibbutz earlier but said the premier was not there at the time. Rivlin said Eshkol, who helped found the kibbutz, had not been there for several months.

A native of the Ukraine, Eshkol came to Palestine at the age of 15 and was active in the Jewish labor movement and the Haganah army which fought for the establishment of Israel. From Israel's founding in 1948, he served first as director-general of defense, then as agriculture minister and from 1952 to 1963 as minister of finance.

Animals Escape During Flood

NEWHALL, Calif. (AP) — Be on the lookout, warned sheriff's officers, for two crocodiles and two hippopotamuses.

The beasts were last reported seen Tuesday floating down the flooding Santa Clara River. Their animal compound, used to supply Hollywood movies, was inundated by heavy rains.

Owners said the animals are extremely dangerous and will be shot on sight.

Guess Is Honored By State Solons

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than 200 present and former members of the Ohio House of Representatives attended a dinner at the Athletic Club here Tuesday night paying tribute to former House Clerk Carl Guess.

Guess, who retired officially at the end of January, was honored earlier in the day when the House, by resolution, named him Clerk Emeritus—the first time any House clerk has received such a designation.

Fuzzy Viet 'Understanding' Puts President In Corner

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A fuzzy concept that has come to be known as "The Understanding" lies at the core of what may be President Nixon's most crucial decision—whether and how to retaliate for the latest enemy offensive in Vietnam.

The central question is: Did the enemy violate "the understanding" by launching its new offensive which since Sunday has involved shelling of South Vietnamese population centers including Saigon?

This understanding was sketched broadly by former President Johnson last Oct. 31 when he announced an end to the bombing of North Vietnam and a definite date—later postponed—for the start of expanded Paris peace talks.

"Last Sunday evening and throughout Monday," Johnson said Oct. 31, "We began to get confirmation of the essential understanding that we had been seeking with the North Vietnamese on the critical issues between us for some time." Johnson said that he had "ordered all air, naval and artillery bombardment of North Vietnam" to cease at 8 a.m. the day after his speech.

Then Johnson outlined the part of the understanding that poses Nixon's problem. "We have made clear to the other side," he said, "that such talks cannot continue if they take military advantage of them. We cannot have productive talks in an atmosphere where the cities are being shelled and where the demilitarized zone is being abused."

Johnson also barked back to earlier speeches he had made in the bombing halt question, making clear still another condition to the "understanding." "I said the bombing will not stop," he recalled from a Sept. 10 speech, "until we are confident that it will not lead to an increase in American casualties."

Still one more condition apparently was included but did not become apparent until Un-

Year Of The Rooster

It is sobering enough to look at the calendar and realize that in 1969 years man has progressed so far in some ways and so little in others, perhaps more important.

To the patient Chinese, philosophical reflections on man's accomplishments must be more profound because their calendar now reads the year 4667. The Chinese new year was duly celebrated in Chinese-American communities with the traditional firecrackers, parades and tail-swishing dragons.

Last year was the year of the monkey, which in Chinese folklore means the year of health and protection. This is the year of the rooster, symbol of courage and good harvest.

This is not a bad omen for a new year, by whatever calendar.

According To Boyle

By BOB POOS (For Hal Boyle)

WASHINGTON (AP) — I spent 16 months in Vietnam observing the hardships endured and heroism displayed by American soldiers there and most of them march across my memory as admired and respected but still for the most part faceless ranks of jungle green fatigues.

But there is one I shall always remember even though I never knew his name. This young man is etched indelibly in my memory because I gave him his last drink of water.

He was a light-haired, nice looking guy, a private or a specialist four, sort of the Jack Armstrong All-American boy type. From the waist up. Below that he was a mass of blood and torn flesh because he had absorbed a burst of heavy machine-gun bullets in the stomach and legs.

The young American lay in a wet, muddy, sandy trench that he and his comrades in a Co., Second Battalion of the 7th Cavalry, had just torn from the hands of a very tough North Vietnamese regiment.

My young friend whom I found myself lying next to was one of those who paid the price for the trench. Up to that time in Vietnam I had seen many, many men killed and wounded but I had never seen one who was so badly wounded yet had lived so long.

As a heavy rain poured down and the North Vietnamese raked the area with machine-gun bullets the young man would remark in a matter of fact tone: "I'm going to die. I don't mind that so much but I sure would like to see my folks again first."

There was never any fear or panic, just a sort of sad resignation to fate. He never acted as if he were in pain either.

Finally, however, the boy groaned and said he was terribly thirsty and would someone give him a drink of water.

A medic on hand named Tommy Cole from Richmond, Va., looked at me over the top of this boy's head inquiringly. I had two canteens full of water and would gladly have given the youth a drink at any time but was aware of the rule that you don't give a man shot in the stomach water, or anything else, to drink.

However, Tommy nodded and then I, and the other men crouching in that trench, knew that this man was going to die.

I pulled a khaki, plastic canteen from its canvas pouch, unscrewed the top and placed it in the young man's hand and helped him raise it to his lips. He drank. Just a couple of swallows. Then he choked and the canteen slipped from his hand and rolled down the side of the trench. The water gurgled out and soaked into the already wet sand of the trench and the young man died.

But many others, on both sides, died that day and the next in a tiny central Vietnamese village called Au Thi.

One of them was the young North Vietnamese who killed my friend. A swirling charge of cavalrymen overran the machine-gun position. The crew, fighting to the last, died in the blast of hand grenades and the sharp spitting of M16 rifles.

Laff-A-Day

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

RELATES Jean-Pierre Hallet in his fascinating book, "Animal Kitabu": At a hostel in Albert National Park, in central Africa, the hippos sometimes plod a full mile from their haunts along the Rwindi River, just to hover outside the restaurant and watch the tourists dining, chatting, and playing cards. During the day the same tourists trek down to the river to watch the same hippos.

Buddy Hackett tells about an ingenious dentist who found a way to handle a particularly nervous lady patient. She panicked regularly the moment she seated herself in his chair, and clamped her mouth so tightly that he couldn't pry it open. So one afternoon he had his girl assistant sneak up behind her, and as soon as he was ready to drill, she got the signal to jab the lady in the rear with a hatpin. The patient opened her mouth to holler—and that was that.

His ministrations completed, the dentist consoled the patient, "Now that wasn't so bad after all, was it?" "Not quite," she admitted, still trembling, "but I certainly didn't expect to feel the pain so far down!"

OVERHEARD: Diplomatic nurse to nervous patient in anteroom: "Don't let the doctor frighten you, my dear. Doctors are like politicians—they view with alarm so that they can point with pride."

Barber to pestiferous customer: "Yes, there IS one sure cure for dandruff. It was invented by a Frenchman. His name was Guillotine."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

There is a tendency for some parents to hopelessly wait for the cross-eyes of their infants and young children to disappear without treatment. In many instances this may be possible, but in far more cases there is a need to do something.

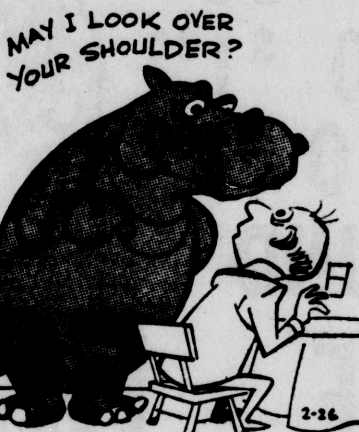

A squinting eye is one in which there is poor muscular coordination of the eye. Each eyeball is surrounded by a group of muscles which act in a remarkable way to pull the eye in every possible direction. In some instances there may be a shortening or an elongation of the muscles in one eye so that both of them do not appear to be in perfect relationship with each other. This disorder, known as strabismus, may be due to many muscular disorders and the exact character can only be determined by special eye examination.

Wishful thinking is not a medical technique. It is most important that as soon as the condition is detected, the child be under the care and guidance of an eye specialist. A complete record can be kept of the progress made, if eye glasses are suggested or if special exercises are prescribed to help the condition. It is always distressing when parents, who delay such an examination, later learn they are years too late in beginning proper correction. There is another reason why such delay is distressing. Youngsters with uncorrected squint are embarrassed and made to feel inadequate when they first enter school.

Arthritis and rheumatism are sometimes used interchangeably but are really not the same. Arthritis is an inflammation or change in the joints of the body. This is a condition that has many subdivisions.

Rheumatism is the term used to describe soreness, stiffness and pains in the muscles and the joints. This, too, is a vague indefinite, descriptive word because there are so many variations of the condition.

There are two major types of arthritis. The first is rheumatoid arthritis and the second is osteoarthritis. The exact diagnosis frequently is made by the physician who carefully investigates the history of the onset of symptoms and then does extensive X-ray studies, plus blood and urine tests, to find the possible

Formation Of Nixon Policy

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

What the Italian sociologist Vilfredo Pareto, called the "circulation of the elite" is a curious thing. The Republicans won the election, partly because our policies in Vietnam had not proved up to driving the Communists out of South Vietnam. So what happens? Professor Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's chief White House adviser on foreign affairs, builds up his own staff by raiding the Pentagon, the State Department, and other government bureaus for at least ten holdovers from the Johnson and Kennedy regimes. I don't know how many Nixon supporters are crying in their beer because Kissinger has plucked such people as Morton C. Halperin, a Harvard arms control expert who once advised McNamara; Daniel Davidson, who worked for Averell Harriman in Paris, and Viron Vaky, a former Alliance for Progress coordinator for Lyndon Johnson, meanwhile passing over people like Robert Strauss-Hupe, James Burnham and William Kintner, who have had excellent records for correct anticipation in the tangled world inhabited by the Kremlinologists.

For myself, I wouldn't be inclined at this date to make too much of an issue of the Nixon administrative staff. The proof of the pudding cannot be had until Mr. Nixon's policies, or at least his responses to Soviet and Red Chinese prod-ding, have been revealed. The domestic policies aren't known yet, either. But the staffing at the Department of Justice seems sound; Secretary of Defense Melvin Robert Laird isn't turning the Pentagon over to the soft-heads; and if Bob Finch has been playing up to the liberals in his Health, Education and Welfare appointments it won't hurt provided that those liberals are forced to come up with new and better answers to the problems of the slums than the Johnson government ever managed to supply.

A more fundamental worry would seem to be the sort of ideas that are fed into Republican heads at the grassroots, which will ultimately determine the pressures Nixon is compelled to acknowledge. Policy in this country is shaped outside of Washington to a great extent, and the big Foundations, which ordinarily get tax exemption on the sometimes mistaken theory that they can be counted on to be impartial, do much of the shaping.

It disheartened me a bit the other night to drop in at the First A. D. Republican Club in New York City for a session on "Africa, Asia and the Development Decade," which featured a talk and a question-and-answer period based on a "great decisions" pamphlet put out by the Foreign Policy Association. The stuff in the pamphlet varies from the soundly informative (as when the effect of Mexican wheats and fast-ripening Philippine rice on the economies of East Asia is explained) to the sheerly stupid. But it is mere stupidity that the pamphlet (which was being offered as a basic text for foreign aid recommendations that are to be forwarded by local Republican Clubs to Washington) quotes at least four socialist economists to one free enterprise. The big-name foreign aid "experts" assembled to point the way toward the next "developmental decade" turn out to be such old collectivizing standbys as the Swedish economist, Gunnar Myrdal, the British Fabian, Barbara Ward, and the American Robert Heilbroner.

Heilbroner is quoted as "wondering" whether Communism: revolutions "might not, in fact, be what is required" to end backwardness in the so-called Third World. "The conditions of backwardness," he writes, "must be attacked with passion, the ruthlessness and the messianic fury of a jihad, a holy war. Only a campaign of an intensity and single-mindedness that must approach the ludicrous and the unbearable offers the chance to ride roughshod over the resistance of the rich and the poor alike and to open the way for the forcible implantation of those modern attitudes and techniques without which there will be no escape from the misery of underdevelopment." And Heilbroner goes on to suggest that only Communism can provide the needed frenzy. Timorously, the pamphlet-text used for the formation of Republican grassroots foreign policy recommendations goes on to quote Professor Milton Friedman, who thinks that only a free capitalistic market will help underdeveloped nations. And the records of Taiwan and South Korea are cited as "success stories." But why do the advocates of a "complete restructuring of society" receive the favored position in a program presented at a Republican club?

What is needed at the grassroots, if we want good Republican foreign aid thinking, is more Milton Friedman and less Robert Heilbroner. If we could get that, Nixon's own policies would be sound.

CLAY SHAW wears a faint smile as he gets into a car in New Orleans after a defense session of his trial on conspiracy charges in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 26, the 57th day of 1969. There are 308 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1531, an earthquake in Portugal killed 30,000 persons and destroyed much of Lisbon and other cities.

On this date:

In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte escaped from the island of Elba with a squadron of 1,200 men to begin his second conquest of France.

In 1846, the man who personified the romance of the American frontier West and was known as "Buffalo Bill"—William Frederick Cody—was born in Scott County, Iowa.

In 1870, New York City's first subway began operating.

In 1919, Congress established Grand Canyon National Park in Arizona.

In 1916, during World War I, the French cruiser "Provence" was sunk in the Mediterranean, with a loss of more than 3,000 lives.

In 1945, during World War II, American guns were shelling Cologne, Germany while American bombers were pounding Tokyo.

Ten years ago—Archbishop Makarios was planning to return to Cyprus after Britain revoked an order exiling the Cypriot leader.

Five years ago—President Lyndon B. Johnson signed a tax reduction bill.

One year ago—North Vietnamese troops mauled a U.S. patrol outside the outpost of Khe Sanh in South Vietnam.

Name Commissioner For Northwest Ohio

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — U.S. District Judge Don Young Tuesday named John Pietrykowski, 38, as U. S. Commissioner for northwest Ohio.

He succeeds Arthur Wilkowsky, recently appointed to fill a vacant seat in the Ohio House of Representatives.

City council was criticized for neglecting the fire department and fire fighting apparatus by Talmer Wise, fire chief. Two fire hydrants were found to be out of working order when firefighters tried to use them at the time of the Malzo Mill blaze. Council agreed to take action toward improvements.

Former Circleville mayor Ed Amey announced the opening of a driving school under his management.

The Grand Theater held a George Washington birthday party with a special matinee of one hour of the best cartoons and comedies, plus free prizes galore, plus the regular feature, showing of Roy Rogers in "Springtime in the Sierras."

The fifth annual Kiwanis Minstrel was presented by Kiwanis Club of Circleville for benefit of their Child Welfare Fund. The all-Kiwanis talent show had an Irish theme.

Rev. G. L. Troutman announced his resignation as pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church effective June 1. His resignation terminated a period of 56 years in which pastorship of the church had been held by Rev. Troutman or his father before him.

Donations made at the Bloodmobile visit to the city exceeded the district's quota for the first time in the program's history. 170 persons registered; 151 pints were collected.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Puffinbarger of Williamsport celebrated their 62nd wedding anniversary. Mr. Puffinbarger, at 92 was still an ardent basketball fan and attended most of Williamsport's games. Mrs. Puffinbarger continued to be active in community and church affairs at 84 years of age.

The Ashville Broncos defeated old rival Pickaway in an exciting overtime fray to become Pickaway County's 1954 basketball champions.

City Council agreed to an authorized construction of Route 23 bypass through the western edge of the city, provided the state paid for everything. A letter from State Highway Director Linzell rejected the city's plan and gently chided the city for side-stepping its responsibility.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Among the new unexpected twists in a strange stock market is the curious fate that seems to have befallen some of the go-go funds.

These funds, if you remember, flashed upon the scene a few years back and brought to the language of the market a new term and a new manner of trading that made conservative investors seem like slouches.

The term was "performance," and it meant that a fund at all times should show the greatest possible return. This is an understandable goal, for the greatest return is the goal of most investors.

Those involved in what became known as the performance mania, however, weren't satisfied with performance over the period of a year; they had to show it by the quarter or even by the month.

Associated with performance were practices that startled old-fashioned investors. Portfolios were turned over completely in one year; some stocks were bought and sold in the same month; a stock's activity rather than its fundamental value often was the criterion for trading.

Box scores, listing stocks bought and sold by each fund during a quarter's time, came to be read as avidly as baseball statistics. Every month or so the results of the performance derby was listed in newspapers.

Speculation, it seemed, ceased to be a risky venture. Naturally the fund with the biggest percentage gain also was the fund whose shares were sought most avidly. As a result, within a few years some funds acquired assets of several hundred millions of dollars.

The highly competitive nature of the go-gos brought some good to the entire market. Since performance counted so much, few money managers could sit back as they once did and let some blue chip deliver them earnings.

Instead, almost every manager of pension funds, foundations, endowments and trusts was forced to spend less time at the club, more at the office. Safe-deposit boxes were opened for the first time in years and the contents examined to see if tradable stocks were among them.

Blue chip investments that had remained in portfolios for ages were traded because of temporarily lulls. It didn't matter if these stocks had performed over the long run; that was emotionalism.

"Let them perform over the short term too," the new money managers said. "In the meantime, let somebody else own them; we'll buy them back when the action begins again."

Not only were portfolio managers jolted awake but so also, the new money managers contended, was the quality of research improved. Instincts, hunches, intuition, guesses no longer were acceptable. The new men used computers.

It is difficult to say if, overall, research has been improved by the go-go funds. Without question, however, there have been notable improvements in some firms, by some independent analysts and by some fund managers.

The standout characteristic of the new money managers, however, could be nothing but their in-out trading, their quest for quick profits, their attitude that the market was for trading more than investing.

They proved a point. Some funds doubled their per share prices in a year. Since success attracted more investors to funds, the assets of some funds grew even faster.

Dear Editor:

To Circleville Blood Donors. Of you who donate blood at our Red Cross collection visits some perhaps have never been personally thanked.

Here is a big thank you from one recipient.

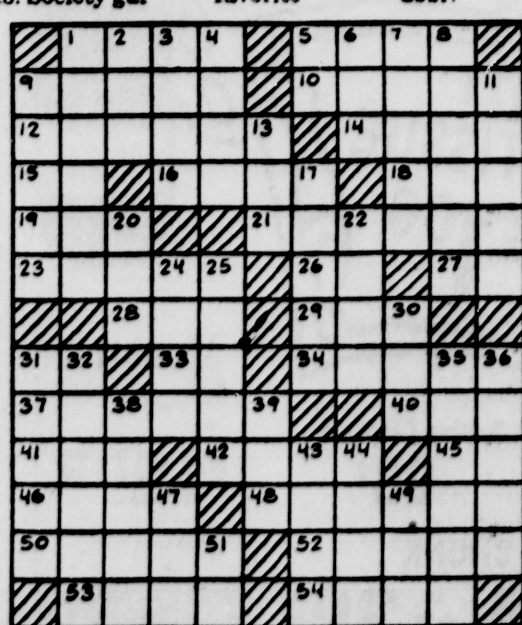

During my recent hospital stay, I was given three pints of your precious gifts and I wanted you all to know how grateful I was to have it.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Enjoy The Mountain But Don't Touch

DEAR ABBY: I propose that we adopt the following code of behavior between the sexes: "Henceforth a man may touch any part of a woman's body that he is able to see."

I believe that such a code would induce women to impose upon themselves some restraints on the manner in which they dress.

Our mini-skirted bare-bosomed gals go about exuding as much sexiness as they possibly can, then they expect to be treated like virtuous untouchable young ladies. Any comments?

LEO IN COLUMBUS
DEAR LEO: Yes! I am in favor of "truth in packaging" and against advertising that which one has no intention of delivering, but since when should one be able to touch everything he sees? One should be able to enjoy viewing a mountain without climbing it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 68 years old and he's still in good health. But he is one of those who made his will out 10 years ago and he has changed it half a dozen times since.

The last time he changed it I asked him what changes he had made this time, and he refused to tell me. As his lawful wedded wife, am I not entitled to know what is in my husband's will?

"IN THE DARK" IN DULUTH
DEAR IN: In Minnesota, a will is a personal matter, and your husband is under no legal obligation to reveal its contents to you.

Should he precede you in death, however, and if you're not satisfied with the terms, you have the right to renounce it, and take from the estate that which you'd have been entitled to had your husband left no will at all. (The laws in the various states differ!)

DEAR ABBY: Roy and I have been married for two years and we have custody of his three children. (His ex-wife isn't fit to raise dogs, much less children.)

My problem is that we are living in the same house Roy and his ex-wife and children lived in. When we were married Roy promised we'd stay here until he sold this house, then we'd get another one. Well, from the looks of things, we are going to be here forever. I just HATE it!

It's not only the house, but I am living with all her old beat up furniture and appliances and I can't stand it any longer.

Roy says we can't just walk out. We have to get our money out of this house before we buy another one, so far he hasn't even put this house on the market. So what should I do?

DEAR SICK: Remind Roy of his promise and ask him to prove his sincerity by letting

Heartbreak Again Comes Due To War

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn. (AP) —The heartbreak of the Vietnam war has come to a Tennessee mother once again. But unlike 15 months ago, this time it appears her grief will not be lifted.

"Oh, no! Another November!" the mother, Blanche Guinn, cried Monday when Army officials informed her that a son, Pfc. Freddie Guinn, 20, had died in Vietnam the day before, shortly after being wounded in action.

Speaking quietly at her small, frame mountainside home just north of here, Mrs. Guinn said the two servicemen assured her that the Army had checked twice on her son's identity before notifying her. She says she believes them this time.

Mrs. Guinn had reason to be wary of "another November" for it was in that month in 1967 that she was grieving for another soldier son, Army Pfc. John W. Guinn, then 23. She wept at the funeral and burial.

Her grief became joy on Nov. 24, however, when her son was found alive and returned home for a reunion and sent on to Ft. Bragg, N.C. where he is still stationed.

That time, joy in Tennessee meant sorrow in Kentucky. The soldier Mrs. Guinn had buried turned out to be Pfc. Guinn W. Tichenor, son of Mrs. Samuel L. Tichenor of Louisville, Ky.

The Black Sea is black because of a high concentration of hydrogen sulphide. The Red Sea gets its red hue from the recurring bloom of small algae. Russia's White Sea earned its name from the ice that covers it most of the year. The Yellow Sea derives its color from mud that rivers carry into it.

Court Upholds Toledo Law Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld the repeal of an open housing ordinance in Toledo, Ohio, Monday — about one month after it had upheld an Akron, Ohio, open housing measure.

The Toledo ordinance was enacted in March of 1967 by the city council but was repealed the next September by a 54,518-22,827 vote.

A group of Negroes — John Holland and others — backed by the NAACP, claimed the repeal referendum represented unconstitutional limits of government power to prohibit discrimination. The Lucas County Common Pleas Court and the Ohio Supreme Court disagreed with them.

Last Jan. 20, the U.S. Supreme Court struck down an open housing ordinance in Akron because the measure was subject to automatic referendum. The high court disapproved because other ordinances by city council would not have been put to the voters automatically.

In the Toledo situation, the court said, the measure was subjected to the same referendum process other city council ordinances passed as emergency legislation would face.

In other actions Monday, the court directed Ohio courts to reconsider rulings in church property disputes and agreed to examine Ohio law governing ways independent candidates for Congress may get on a ballot.

The Supreme Court ruled Jan. 27 in a property dispute involving two Savannah, Ga., Presbyterian churches that civil courts cannot impose a settlement that depends on the court's examination of religious doctrine.

It said the Ohio decisions should be re-examined in light of that ruling.

Ohio Courts had ordered followers of suspended Serbian Orthodox Bishop Milivojevic Dionisije to surrender a church in Akron to supporters of the Serbian patriarchate in Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

The suspension of the bishop and Belgrade's division of the U.S.-Canada diocese into three sections set off at least 16 lawsuits in Cleveland, Lorain and Youngstown, Ohio, in Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, New Jersey and Pennsylvania and in Canada.

An Ohio appellate court ruled in August, 1967, that the true identity of St. Demetrius Church of Akron before the schism was allegiance to Belgrade and, therefore, those who recognized Belgrade's authority had the right to control the Akron church.

The Supreme Court said it would hear next term the appeal by Paul Brockington of Cleveland, an independent who was unable to run for Congress last year because he could not collect enough signatures on his nominating petitions.

Under Ohio law, Brockington needed a number of signatures equal to seven per cent of the number of voters in the district who voted for governor in the last election. He needed 5,974 signatures and received 99. Democrat Louis Stokes won the election.

Brockington's appeal, backed by the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio, is based in part on the Supreme Court decision last October which gave George C. Wallace a place on the Ohio presidential ballot.

A hundred years ago the average American worked 65½ hours a week. His counterpart today works 40½.

Batman, Robin Take A Licking

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — in for attention. A provision would prohibit the showing of Batman and Robin had to share attention with "The Tropic of Cancer," today as the House Judiciary Committee held its second hearing on a proposed obscenity bill.

Rep. Richard Reichel R-92 Massillon, said that could apply to Batman and Robin and the first witness today, Prof. Harry Clor of Kenyon College, agreed.

Which Of Our 4700 Stores Get The Best Beef?

Believe it or not, there are some people who think the quality of our beef varies from store-to-store.

It's not true!

Every one of our Meat Departments offers the same high-quality beef, the only quality we sell... "SUPER-RIGHT" Quality.

Our quality specifications for "SUPER-RIGHT" Beef are so high that some beef graded "Choice" just isn't good enough to be labeled "SUPER-RIGHT."

This one "high quality" policy for all stores applies to all the meats we sell.

It is true, that where customer demand calls for it, you will find thicker steaks, double lamb chops, etc., but they are all cut from the same quality meat that is available in every A&P Meat Department.

After all, to satisfy customer demand is just plain good business.

One other thing we want you to know.

No matter where you live, if you want that thick steak, double lamb chop or any cut you don't see in the case, just ask for it.

WE CARE about, and want to satisfy, every customer... and we mean every customer.

Miss Sherry Lynn Brown, Ted Herron Are Wed

MR. AND MRS. TED R. HERRON

Miss Sherry Lynn Brown and Ted R. Herron were united in marriage 6:30 p.m. Feb. 14 in the Community United Methodist Church in Hallsville. The Rev. John W. Glick performed the double ring ceremony before an altar adorned with four seven branch candelabra, pedestal vases of snowdrift caryantheums and pompons. Potted palms and white satin bows on the pews completed the decorations.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice F. Brown, Hallsville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Herron 457 Watt St.

Organist, William Rihl, and vocalist, Mrs. Francis Harmon, presented a program of nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected for her wedding a floor length gown of Chantilly lace designed with a fitted bodice featuring a Sabrina neckline sprinkled with iridescents and long sleeves ending in points over her hands. The bouffant skirt was tier upon tier of lace ruffles which swept back to a chapel length train. Her elbow length veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a queen's crown adorned with pearl and crystal droplets. Her bouquet was feathered white carnations and lily of the valley, accented with satin tufts, bows and streamers atop a white Bible.

Miss Valerie L. Brown, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of rose red chiffon over silk taffeta designed with an A-line skirt. The empire waistline was banded with Venice lace. Her matching headpiece was enhanced with flowers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Beverly Herron, sister of the groom and Miss Aria Poling. They were dressed identically to the maid of honor in shell pink. The maid of honor carried a colonial bouquet of red feathered carnations with pink satin tufts accented with pink hearts. The bridesmaids bouquets were identical in pink with red hearts.

Flower girls were Heidi I. Brown, sister of the bride, and Sherry Roll of Chillicothe, cousin of the bride. Ring bearer was Randy C. Roll of Kingston, cousin of the bride.

Darrell Creager, cousin of the groom, performed the duties of best man. Seating the guests were Rick Congrove, cousin of the groom, and Nick Van-Buskirk.

A reception in the social room of the church immediately followed the ceremony. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with the traditional bride and groom figurines and surrounded with pink and red carnations and greenery. A bouquet of red roses and lighted tapers in silver candle holders also adorned the table.

Hostesses were Mrs. Monte Hinton, Miss Ginger Palmer, Miss Joyce Coates, Mrs. Roy Roll and Mrs. Guy Courtright.

For a wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains, the bride wore a navy blue wool dress with tan reptile accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The new Mrs. Herron is a graduate of Zane Trace High School and National Institute of America in Chillicothe.

Mr. Herron graduated from Circleville High School and is employed by Lincoln Molded Plastics.

The couple now reside on the couple now resides on Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Columbus, Ashville and Chillicothe.

Women's Society Plans Initiation Of New Members

Beta Rho Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary for women educators, met Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Robert Tacy, 159 Hillcrest Drive.

A trio entertained the group by singing "Juanita." Each member answered roll call with an example of her most recent personal growth.

The business meeting dealt with initiation in April of new members and with entertainment in March of girls who are prospective future teachers from area high schools. A discussion, led by Amy Miga, chairman, concerning values especially pertaining to race issues, followed.

Hostesses were Mrs. Ellis Evans and Drama Melton. Other members present were Mrs. P. Lewis Brevard, Lois Brobst, Mrs. O'Dell Baker, Mrs. Arthur Beatty, Mrs. Robert Bush, Mrs. Ward Cross, Mrs. John Dowler, Mrs. Fred Engle, Mrs. Alfred Gabriel, Mrs. Harry Kern, Mrs. William Grooms, Betty Jean Melton, Mrs. George McGhee, Amy Miga, Mrs. Ben Nothstine, Leora Sayre, Mrs. Charles Towler, Mrs. Robert Tacy and the president, Mrs. Dick Tootle.

Hlavac-Kerns Vows Read In California

In a midnight ceremony Jan. 1, in Las Vegas, Nev., Catherine J. Hlavac became the bride of Robert L. Kerns.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hlavac, Lakewood, Calif., and Mrs. Jean Herron of Tarleton.

The bride is a graduate of Lakewood High School, and attended Long Beach City College and Golden West College. She was a member of the Welfare and Service Club KAMA while in high school.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Logan Elm High School. He is now serving in the U.S. Navy, stationed at Long Beach Naval Station, Long Beach, Calif. He is presently on duty for six months in Hawaii.

American History Month Program For Rader Circle

The program for the recent meeting of Rader Circle of Community United Methodist Church in the home of Mrs. Emmett Branhart, 200 Northridge Road, was concerning American History Month. Mrs. Dan Eitel, Mrs. C. R. Barnhart and Mrs. W. E. Reichelderfer were assisting hostesses.

Before the business meeting began, members were seated at the dining table where refreshments were served. Decorations were in keeping with the season.

Mrs. Michael Karickhoff conducted the business session. She made several announcements of interest to the group and stated that Rader Circle had met the pledge required of them.

Farm Bureau Women Meet

Pickaway County Farm Bureau Women's Committee met recently in the Farm Bureau Home, E. Main St., with Mrs. Charles Rose, vice president, presiding. Devotions were presented by Miss Mary Clark.

Members were reminded to report functions from their respective local areas to the Farm Bureau office. The women's committee is attempting to establish a Community Calendar as one of their projects.

Nominations are also requested for young Farm Bureau people who may attend Farm Bureau Youth School at Otterbein in June. The county Farm Bureau will pay $25 scholarships to the school for 5 boys and 5 girls. The women are to nominate youth from their own area, who are high school age.

Nelson Stevens, Farm Bureau organization director, reported that the membership drive is progressing and urged that councils strive for 100 per cent membership.

Those attending the meeting were Mrs. J. B. Stevenson, Mrs. Ralph Fisher, Miss Clark, Mrs. Carl Martin, Mrs. Tom Conrad, Mrs. Luther List, Mrs. Arthur Leist, Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Marvin Rittinger, Mrs. Harold Hines and Stevens.

Scripture for devotions. Her remarks were appropriate to the Lenten Season and told what Lent should mean to each one as an individual.

Mrs. McAbee in presenting the program stated that February was American History Month and reviewed the highlights of our American Heritage, old and new. Some of the well known persons whose birthdays occur in the month of February are Thomas A. Edison, Abraham Lincoln, Patrick Henry, George Washington and Lt. Commander Butch O'Hara. Many important events in the growth of our nation happened in the month of February. Among these are the signing of the Declaration of Independence, the first meeting of the U. S. Supreme Court, Lewis and Clark Expedition, treaty that ended the French and Indian War, establishment of the U.S. Navy and dedication of the Washington Monument.

The next circle meeting will be March 13 in the home of Mrs. Richard Plum, 610 Ridgewood Drive.

Blue Star Mothers Meet

Blue Star Mothers, Chapter 7, met recently at the American Red Cross headquarters. Mrs. Gladys Russell, second vice president conducted the business session. Olive Hettinger read a letter from Mrs. Jessie Pencil thanking the group for the bibs and helping at the Christmas store. Mrs. Emma Ankrom read a letter from the Veterans Administration thanking the group for its New Year's Party for patients.

Attending were Emma Ankrom, Myrtle Good, Olive Hettinger, Ethel Lane, Dora Melvin, Gladys Russell, Dorothy Smith and Evelyn Pontious.

The next meeting will be held at the Red Cross headquarters the second Thursday of March.

Police Arrest 1,000 In 1968

Circleville Police made 905 adult arrests and 103 juvenile arrests during 1968 according to the annual report of the department filed with Circleville Mayor Richard Gerhart.

Over one half of the arrests — 504 — were for traffic violations. The report listed 197 arrests for intoxication and 44 for disorderly conduct.

Of the juvenile arrests, 48 were for traffic violations 18 for curfew violation and eight each for drinking and for grand larceny.

There were 597 complaints registered with the Police Department during 1968.

A TOTAL of 91,200 miles was driven during the year by the two marked police cruisers and 26,000 miles by the one unmarked car. During the year one new police car was purchased.

During the year the police department collected $11,390.47 from parking meters, $2,220.47 from 25 cent parking tickets and $1,316 in $2 parking tickets.

City police handled over $56,000 for Municipal Court during the year. There were 760 meals served to prisoners lodged in the city jail.

Patrolman Wesley Barton made 58 speeches on narcotics to audiences totalling approximately 6,000 persons during the year.

The city police investigated 493 automobile accidents, including one fatal accident during the year.

Three officers received 120 hours compulsory training and Jack Mills attended a 40-hour homicide seminar in Cincinnati. Approximately 100 hours of miscellaneous schools and seminars were attended by different members of the department, making a total of an estimated 500 hours of training at a cost of $400 to the city.

The Circleville Police Department is composed of one Chief, four sergeants, and nine patrolmen (one sergeant for plain clothes in the future), four civilian personnel; one clerk-typist, female; one meter maid, female; two radio operators, male.

Convict Pair Of Murders For Money

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Paul S. Perveler has been sentenced to death in the gas chamber and his girl friend to life imprisonment for the double-indemnity insurance murders of their spouses.

Perveler, 31, was sentenced Tuesday by the jury which a week earlier convicted him of murdering his bride, Cheryl, 22, and murdering Kristina Cromwell's husband, Marlin, 27. The one-time insurance adjuster was also convicted of attempting to murder his first wife, Lela, 30.

The blonde Mrs. Cromwell, mother of a 6-year-old son, was convicted of conspiring with Perveler to kill her husband.

The seven-man, five-woman jury received the penalty phase of the trial Monday and deliberated a total of five hours.

The prosecution charged that Perveler and Mrs. Cromwell sought to collect up to $105,000 in double-indemnity life insurance.

Defense attorneys said they will appeal the convictions.

Free Men Of Charges

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two young men accused in the $11,133 robbery Feb. 12 of a branch of the Fifth-Third Union Trust Co. here were released from jail Tuesday after charges against them were dropped.

Arthur T. Carter, 22, a former University of Cincinnati student now living in Washington, D.C., and Charles W. Barker, 23, Hillcrest, Md., had been charged with armed robbery.

They had been held in Washington in lieu of $50,000 bonds after being arrested there Feb. 19.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Robert Steinberg said that witnesses who have identified the pair declined to testify and Carter and Barker should not be under $50,000 bonds until the FBI has time to further investigate the case.

Also, Carter and Barker have come up with witnesses who say they saw the two men in Washington when the robbery occurred.

Battleship New Jersey May Again Go Into Mothballs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The battleship New Jersey's homeward voyage from Vietnam waters next month may lead her back into mothballs if the war ends by next fall.

Without the fighting, the Navy would need another mission to justify keeping the world's only active battlegroup in service. Navy officers acknowledged that might be quite a task.

"There's no other requirement for that kind of ship," a Navy source said. "There aren't any battleships for the New Jersey to shoot against."

There are more efficient and less expensive vessels to handle such jobs as escorting carriers and supporting amphibious landings.

The 54,000-ton, 26-year-old battleship, veteran of World War II and Korea, was called out of the reserve fleet in 1967 largely because the United States was losing bombers over North Vietnam at a rising and worrisome rate.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's analysts calculated it would be "cost effective" in the long run to wheel a battleship close to the North Vietnamese coast where it could fire 16-inch shells far in land.

Studies estimated that a battleship's nine 16-inch guns could equal the work of about 50 planes a day. Each battleship shell cost about $1,700 compared to $2 million a plane.

So McNamara ordered the New Jersey demobilized, equipped with some modern gear, and sent out to war.

It cost $21.5 million to activate and modernize the New Jersey. In addition, the Navy estimates that the New Jersey's six month tour off Vietnam has cost about $5.4 million to run the ship and just under $8 million in ammunition spent.

The irony is that most of the targets which the New Jersey was supposed to hit were taken away when all bombing and shelling of North Vietnam was halted Oct. 31, barely a month after she took up station.

The Navy had planned to concentrate the New Jersey's fire on such "hard" targets as steel bridges, railroad marshalling yards, and power plants.

Since the bombing and shelling halt the New Jersey has been used against much less suitable targets for her 16-inch guns in South Vietnam.

Federal Probers Think New Look At Lindane Needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal investigators have criticized the Department of Agriculture for approving use of a potentially dangerous pesticide in restaurants and other food handling businesses, and called for action to "resolve this question of safety to human health."

In a report made public Monday, the General Accounting Office said that since the department's Agricultural Research Service licensed the use of lindane pellets in 1949, millions of vaporizers using the pellets have been sold to commercial and industrial establishments.

The report noted that the U.S. Public Health Service, the Food and Drug Administration and other organizations "have questioned the adequacy of the scientific data to prove that continuous vaporization of lindane pellets is safe," and added: "ARS has not resolved this question of safety as raised by these organizations. Nor has ARS taken action to restrict or disapprove the use of lindane pellets in vaporizers in certain commercial and industrial establishments."

In response to the GAO report, Ned D. Bayley, director of science and education in the Department of Agriculture, said: "Information has recently come to our attention which indicates the need for a re-evaluation of the safety of lindane in an uncontrolled environment."

Bayley said the ARS is setting up a meeting of experts in the field "to determine what steps should be taken in regard to the problem of lindane vaporizers."

The GAO said about 50 lindane pellet products are licensed by the ARS, which must register all pesticides to be shipped in interstate commerce. The law requires the manufacturer provides evidence of its effectiveness and safety when used as directed.

Negroes To Meet Hiram President

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — President Elmer Jagow of Hiram College says he has invited Negro students to meet with him Wednesday to discuss their demands and their accusation that the college is a racist institution.

There have been no campus disturbances in connection with the demands. However, Negro students reportedly were circulating petitions Monday in an apparent move to gain moral support from other students.

Man Given Life Term In Prison

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—Douglas Duron, 20, was sentenced to life imprisonment Tuesday after he interrupted his first-degree murder trial to plead guilty to second-degree murder.

Duron was charged with the slaying last June 11 of Vincent Gominne, 19, during an East Side service station holdup.

His brother, Robert, 21, faces trial May 12 in connection with the same slaying, and a third man, Edward Ray, 22, was convicted of first-degree murder last week and was sentenced to life imprisonment after the jury recommended mercy.

The Maine shoreline winds 3,478 miles; yet by straight line it spans only 228.

Ike Better; Well Enough For Reading

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's recovery from high-risk abdominal surgery has progressed to the point where he feels well enough to read, his doctors report.

Doctors at Walter Reed Army Hospital said Tuesday that the 78-year-old general's recovery from his Sunday night operation to relieve an intestinal obstruction "is little short of remarkable."

In a bulletin issued Tuesday night the doctors said: "Gen. Eisenhower has spent a comfortable day. His cardiovascular status is remaining stable. Mrs. Eisenhower has visited him frequently during the day. He asked for his glasses and read for a brief period this afternoon."

Earlier, as an indication of the progress, the physicians noted that tea had been added to Eisenhower's diet and that his son felt the situation was well enough in hand to leave the hospital.

Eisenhower, who was in the hospital recovering from a series of heart attacks, went into surgery after doctors found an intestinal obstruction threatened his life.

The doctors did not say what Eisenhower was reading. But, in the past, doctors have said that his prime source of activity during convalescence was to read Western novels.

Ohio Officials Push Vo-Ed School Program

By STEVE DRAKE
Associated Press Writer
"A job for every Ohioan... an Ohioan for every job."

That has become the slogan for vocational and technical education—a major thrust for the final two years of the administration of Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes.

"The present educational system will create a decadent society," Rhodes told The Associated Press. "Our educational system has maintained a subject-centered college preparatory program based on an 1850 concept of education. As a result high school graduates and college dropouts will enter the work force unskilled and untrained for today's jobs."

"Today our high schools are expected to serve all youth and such a college preparatory curriculum is not relevant to the needs of the majority of students enrolled," the governor added.

The state department of education says only one of every seven Ohio students graduates from college. The other six, it says, need vocational education to prepare them for the complex jobs available today.

"Vocational education would be two-phased," said Byrd Shoemaker, director of the Division of Vocational Education of the Ohio Department of Education. "It would be included in the regular high school curriculum, but would also be a continuing program for training and re-training adults."

A student in vocational education would specialize in agricultural education, business and office education, distributive education, home economics education, trade and industrial education or occupations training. Shoemaker said technical education would be a two-year post-high school para-professional training. It would train students for middle management positions in business and industry. Graduates of the technical schools would assist professionals in engineering, office, agriculture, distribution, health and public service occupations.

"The student would decide at age 16 whether he wished to work toward college or a job skill," Shoemaker said. "But the decision is not irreversible. The student in vocational education would receive a first class high school diploma and could attend any state university."

"Gov. Rhodes has put his finger on one of the major problems of the state of Ohio and he has suggested steps to correct it," said Dr. Stagner Brigh-ton, executive secretary of the Ohio Education Association (OEA). "He wants to take a big step forward and bring us up to date—now."

"This is a new society and a new period with different demands for employment preparation," said Dr. Martin W. Essex, superintendent of public instruction. "The schools must change to fit the times and this is the purpose of the proposals for vocational and technical education."

"The Ohio NAACP feels there is no conflict in the goals of college preparatory education and vocational-technical education—we need both," said Harold Strickland, Ohio field director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. "We can't inspire all Ohio students to attend college—some just shouldn't be there."

"A well organized vocational program is a comprehensive program providing instruction in skills and technical knowledge and opportunities to develop work habits and attitudes," Rhodes said. "Vocational education is essentially a system in which the occupational goal of the student is used as the center. The skills, mathematics, science, technical knowledge, work habits and attitudes are developed into a system around this goal."

The Governor's Task Force on Vocational and Technical Education has proposed that 48 joint vocational educational districts be created outside the eight major metropolitan centers of the state—Akron, Canton, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo and Youngstown.

"The combined districts would bring together the student base and tax base essential for the establishment of vocational centers to serve not only youth but adults in a continuing education program," Rhodes said.

Of the 48 proposed joint vocational districts, 12 are presently in operation and six more are funded and under construction. The joint districts must be approved and funded at the local level.

One of the proposed 48 vocational districts would combine Jackson, Meigs, Gallia and Vinton counties.

One local district, Shoemaker said, has one-third the tax value of all four counties. The Kyger Creek School District, which includes the Kyger Creek Power Plant of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company, has a per pupil tax valuation of $84,620, sixth highest in the state.

"If the four counties combined to form a joint vocational district," Shoemaker emphasized, "they would all benefit from that power plant which serves the entire area. As it is now, only the Kyger Creek district, with but 849 students, benefits from the plant."

"I don't think the residents of Vinton County would approve a four-county vocational district," said John Palmer, superintendent of the Vinton County School District. "We are now a county-wide district and many of our residents do not like it. We have found that the larger the school district, the more apathetic the parents. We now have a huge transportation problem."

"Transportation is a problem," Shoemaker said. "But there are many benefits from consolidating for vocational and technical education. And we would applaud it if the counties would join together for all educational purposes."

"Consolidation is generally better for the students," Palmer said, "but it does create additional problems."

The vocational-technical educational plan, would require several changes in the present educational curriculum, Shoemaker said.

First—Teachers in the first six grades would emphasize a motivation to do something and in respect for work.

Second—In the seventh and eighth grades we would give a broad orientation in all types of jobs and professions presently available in the economy.

Third—During the ninth and tenth we would give the student exploratory study and work experience in the fields in which he is most interested.

Fourth—At the completion of the 10th grade the student would choose the program he wanted to enter. His decision could be changed if his goals changed.

Asked if he thought the state could make the necessary curriculum changes for vocational-technical education to be effective, Rhodes replied:

"Ohio can change anything it wants—if it wants. If we want to do the job, we will."

Measure To Repeal Death Penalty Would Fail, Report

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio American Civil Liberties Union was told Tuesday night that a measure to repeal the death penalty outright would be defeated by a two to one vote in the legislature.

"As strongly as I oppose capital punishment, I flatly state that the votes just aren't there," said State Rep. Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Northfield.

He explained that a recent survey of legislators showed that two out of every three were against outright repeal of the death penalty.

Ocasek, three other legislators and two ACLU members appeared on a panel at the Nell House to discuss strategy to follow in getting capital punishment abolished in Ohio.

The Northfield Democrat has introduced a resolution to put the death penalty issue on the November ballot.

He said he felt if his resolution reached the floor of the Senate and House, it would pass because the final decision would rest with the people.

State Rep. Walter L. White, R-6 Lima, who has introduced measures to abolish the death penalty in past sessions, told the 30 ACLU members at the meeting that the main opposition would come from law enforcement officials.

"Next to husbands and wives who kill each other, law enforcement officers feel they are the class most likely to be killed," White said. "Because of the death penalty, they feel they have some kind of protection if they are killed in the line of duty."

The Fraternal Order of Police is scheduled to testify against Ocasek's resolution before the Senate Judiciary Committee next Monday night.

The opponents of the death penalty do not plan to present their arguments before the committee.

After the Judiciary Committee meeting Monday, Ocasek explained he felt "there is no sense in bringing in hundreds of people to testify because it would only antagonize them."

The chairman of the Central Ohio ACLU, Benson A. Wolman, said in an interview he felt Ocasek's measure would have more chance of passing if it allowed for certain "exclusions."

"The people would be more likely to vote to abolish the death penalty if death in the electric chair was allowed as punishment for those convicted of killing police officers or prison guards."

Ferguson Act Is Invoked In Warren

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Mayor Raymond Schryver has invoked the Ohio Ferguson Act in an attempt to end a two-day-old strike by 200 city workers that has crippled most city services. Public services in Trumbull County offices also were at a standstill with the two-day-old strike of 120 county employees, are members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

Under provisions of the Ferguson Act, Schryver ordered all city department heads Tuesday night to notify absent workers they were considered to be on strike and have thus forfeited their jobs.

Schryver invoked the Ferguson Act after he unsuccessfully requested the union to provide emergency crews to operate the Warren water and sewage treatment plant.

About 200 nonunion city employees were reported honoring the strike but police and fire departments in Warren were unaffected. The city employees, members of Local 74 of the federation, were striking for a longevity pay program turned down by city officials.

Students End Disturbance In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The 125 dissident John Hay High School pupils who invaded the downtown offices of School Supt. Paul W. Briggs left behind a souvenir:

A heart and two names carved in a table in the reception area outside Briggs' office.

The youths were in the building about half the day Tuesday. Since they arrived when Briggs was out, they had to wait for a couple of hours for him to return, then met with him for about two hours.

The delegation left John Hay, which has been the scene of several disturbances, about 9:30 a. m.

"The first we saw of them they were marching down East 6th Street from Superior," said Deputy Supt. George E. Tehobald.

When the youths saw that Briggs was not in, they went to an auditorium, where Mrs. Connella C. Brown, administrative assistant for human relations, met with them until Briggs arrived.

The dissident students presented grievances concerning food in the cafeteria, alleged overuse of suspensions as a disciplinary measure and the presence of some 20 adult security guards in the corridors.

Bill Russell Just What Doc Ordered

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Russell knew his injured knee was all right when he scaled a fence making his midnight getaway from a Boston hospital.

And the way Player-Coach Russell sees it, since he's been just what the doctor ordered for the Boston Celtics over the past 13 seasons, there was no reason he shouldn't prescribe for himself and check himself out of the hospital.

Russell had just finished pulling down 25 rebounds Tuesday night in the Celtics' 112-99 National Basketball Association victory over Phoenix. But he was chuckling more when reminded about his daring escape.

It happened several weeks ago when Russell injured a knee in a Sunday afternoon game against New York and was hospitalized for a case of exhaustion, as well.

"The knee still hurts a little bit but not enough to bother me," he said. "Otherwise, I feel as good as I ever have."

"But I had to get out of that hospital. By Thursday night the room was closing in on me. I couldn't get out for the first few days because I was taken to the hospital in my uniform and I had no clothes."

Northwestern Win All But Eliminates OSU From Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Lowly Northwestern virtually eliminated Ohio State from the Big Ten basketball title race by upsetting the Buckeyes 86-83 Tuesday night.

The loss left Ohio State with only the slim hope of tying first-place Purdue, which edged Michigan State 74-72 Tuesday night.

Northwestern had little trouble in posting its fourth win against seven Big Ten losses.

The Wildcats coasted to a 44-30 halftime margin and then shook off three scoring threats by the Buckeyes in the second period.

Ohio State cut the lead to 65-59 midway through the second half but a pair of baskets by Terry Gamber started Northwestern's final surge that withstood a late rally by the Bucks.

Don Adams of Northwestern led all scorers with 22 points. Jody Finney was high for OSU with 20.

In other Ohio college basketball action:

Drake drubbed Cincinnati 85-68 to move to within a half game of Missouri Valley Conference leader Louisville. The Bulldogs, capitalizing on superior rebounding against a taller Cincinnati team, grabbed an early lead and cruised to the victory. Drake's Willie McCarter had a game-high 25 points, while Don Ogletree led Bearcat scorers with 21.

Cleveland Indians Still Face Problem

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Cleveland Indians opened spring training Tuesday with eight players of 42 on the roster still unsigned after the threatened baseball players' strike was settled earlier in the day.

Still unsigned and expected to be troublesome across the bargaining table are pitchers Sonny Siebert and Steve Hargan and catchers Duke Sims and Ken Suarez.

Gahanna Dumps Circleville From Tournament, 97-59

Circleville bowed out of the Central District Class AA Tournament Tuesday, losing to Gahanna Lincoln at the Ohio State Fairground's Coliseum, 97-59.

The Tigers who ended their season with a 5-14 record, were at the mercy of the Ohio Capital League champs from the start. Gahanna was the sixth seeded team in the Central District tournament and now has a 17-2 record.

Led by big Mike Browning, a fine 6-foot-7 center, the Gahanna Lions were never threatened Browning scored 13 points and pulled down nine rebounds in the first quarter as he led his team to a 25-11 lead.

At halftime, the score was 51-29 and by the end of the third quarter, 75-41.

BROWNING finished the game with 39 points and 23 rebounds. He made 16 of 28 shots from the field and seven of 10 at the foul line.

Circleville's leading scorer was Randy Halley who connected on five of 20 from the field and five of six at the foul line for 15.

Dave Horst scored 12 points for the Tigers, making five of 17 field goal attempts and two of five foul shots. Charlie Jackson made three of 11 from the field and was four for four at the charity stripe for 10 points. Mike Neal scored nine, Phil Diehl six, Ty Ankrum four and Dave Hopkins three for Circleville.

Gahanna Coach John Stanley left his starters in the game until the closing minutes as he ran the score up on the hapless Tigers.

He left one of them in the game too long, Mike Price, a guard, scored 21 points for his team and was the floor general. But with 4:06 to play and his team ahead by 40 points, he tried to drive between to Circleville players for a layup and crumpled to the floor with a severely sprained ankle.

Stanley did not substitute for Browning until only 1:44 remained to play in the game and the Lions led by 45 points.

FRED Points, a 6-foot-2 forward, scored 12 points for Gahanna. Mike Wiley notched 10, Steve Scheel six, Jerry Lang four and Steve Korpielka and Tom Schwade two each.

Gahanna had a giant edge in rebounds, 62-34. The Lions made 41 of 79 shots.

Steve Mix Named Top MAC Player

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Steve Mix, who holds 17 Toledo career cage records, is the Mid-American Conference player of the week for the second time in three weeks.

The rugged 6-foot-6 Rocket senior scored 24 points against Marshall and netted 33 in last Saturday's victory over Bowling Green.

from the field, a 52 per cent shooting average, and 15 of 20 foul shots, a 75 per cent average. Circleville made 19 of 78 field goal tries, a 23 per cent average, and 21 of 26 charity tosses, an 80 per cent average. Tom Bowers, a sophomore moved up from the reserve team for the tournament tilt, started the game for Circleville but was scoreless.

Doug Sanders Out To Win Doral Open

MIAMI (AP) — Dashing Doug Sanders is out to change his image — on the golf course.

Sanders, who won $109,455 on the tour in 1967 but only $38,131 last year, is attempting something of a comeback in the $150,000 Doral Open which starts Thursday.

Dapper Doug has won the Doral Tournament twice—in 1965 and 1967—and holds the 72-hole tournament record of 274 for his 1965 victory.

Sanders, 35, has won 17 tournaments during 12 years on the tour and stands sixth, at more than $500,000, on the all-time money list.

This year, the tour's Beau Brummel has won only $1,542.25 in four tournaments, and is 100th on the 1969 moneylist. His best showing was a tie for 31st in last month's Bing Crosby.

Sanders got married last August for the third time, but he has not won a tournament since the Doral in 1967.

He blames his victory drought on his business interests, not his marriage or his legendary nightlife.

"Playing golf demands 24 hour attention but so does business," he said. "Right now I want to give a lot more time to golf."

Sanders has to be considered a threat at Doral, the first stop on pro golf's Florida tour.

Baseball Pension Dispute Settled

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baseball's spring training camps were expected to begin resembling major league installations today in the wake of the settlement of the nagging pension dispute between the owners and Players Association.

Veteran players who had refused to sign contracts or report to camp while the pension issue was being negotiated, had the green light to play ball from Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association.

It was a marathon negotiating session between Miller and John Gaherin, the owners' representative that ended early Tuesday, which led to the $5.45 million compromise pension package and settlement of the boycott.

And within a matter of hours after the settlement was reached, several players had signed contracts and said they would begin working out today.

General Manager Jim Campbell of the world champion Detroit Tigers had the busiest day. He signed nine veterans including pitchers Joe Sparrma, John Hiller and Pat Dobson and pinch hitting specialist Gates Brown.

Catcher Tim McCarver, player representative of the St.

Louis Cardinals, called General Manager Bing Devine from New York to report the settlement and agree to terms for 1969.

Cincinnati enrolled pitchers George Culver, who hurled a no-hitter last season, and Tony Cloninger as well as outfielder Bobby Tolan and infielder Jimmy Stewart. Tolan was acquired from St. Louis in the trade for Vada Pinson and is expected to be a regular for the Reds.

Stan Bahnsen, the New York pitcher who was the American League's rookie of the year in 1968, signed with the Yankees, leaving five players including Mickey Mantle still unsigned. Mantle is expected to arrive at the Yankees' Fort Lauderdale, Fla., training site Friday.

While the Yankees were waiting on Mantle, another superstar, San Francisco's Willie Mays, was waiting on the Giants.

Mays has been at the Giants' Casa Grande, Ariz., camp since Monday, filming some television shows. Chub Feeney, the Giants' vice president who negotiates contracts, is due there today. Mays said, "I'm ready anytime they get this thing over," before the settlement was reached.

Tony Horton, a first baseman, and shortstop Larry Brown signed Cleveland contracts and joined the Indians' workout at Tucson, Ariz., while pitchers Al Jackson and Ron Taylor agreed to terms with the New York Mets following the pension agreement.

The team in the most trouble as far as satisfied players is concerned seemed to be the Minnesota Twins. President Calvin Griffith admitted that he had signed only 23 of the 42-man squad.

Included among the dissatisfied Minnesota players were sluggers Harmon Killebrew, Tony Oliva and Bob Allison, speedy Cesar Tovar and pitchers Jim Kaat, Dean Chance and Dave Boswell.

Chance, in fact, was totally unconcerned with baseball Monday. He turned up at a New York press conference to introduce light heavyweight boxer Ray Anderson. Chance said he will manage Anderson and also promote fights as president of Ohio Boxing, Inc.

John Bench Still Staging Holdout

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A tentative settlement in the baseball pension dispute and eight signings have brought smiles to Cincinnati officials, but indications are the Reds will encounter some holdouts.

One is likely to be John Bench, catcher and National League Rookie-of-the-Year in 1968.

"Now they'll know for sure that I'm holding out," Bench said, referring to the tentative agreement.

Local OSPE Sponsors Career Event

Fifteen students from the Pickaway County area became "Engineers for a Day" in a career guidance project sponsored by the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers Southern Ohio Chapter.

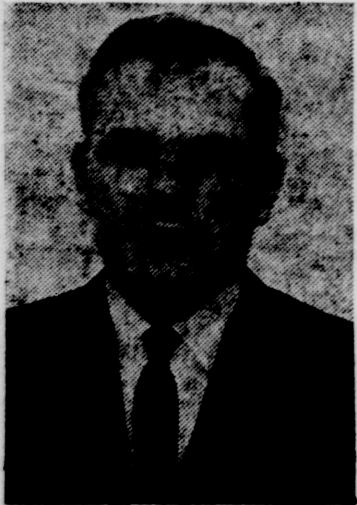

High School students interested in engineering and science spent one full day with an engineer. The students reported to the personnel manager who briefed them on company history, products and employment practices.

Each student was then paired with an engineer who escorted them through the plant, explaining operations and in general what goes on during an average day.

None of this would have been possible without the enthusiastic cooperation of industry willing to do without the services of a skilled engineer for a day.

The companies participating this year were E. I. DuPont (owns Illinois, Container Corp., PPG Industries and General Electric.

U.S. Paratroopers Set For Exercise

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Army paratroopers will fly from the United States to South Korea next month for maneuvers which the Pentagon called "the longest airborne assault operation in history."

The Defense Department announced today that the exercise involving about 2,500 Army paratroopers and Air Force personnel, will be staged between March 9 and March 20.

Shaw Trial Brought Only Vague Attack On JFK Report

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

They were invisible in the dock at the Clay Shaw courtroom. But they were on trial, too: the 26 volumes of the Warren Commission.

For if the jury finds Shaw guilty of conspiring to assassinate President John F. Kennedy it is finding, by implication, that the report erred. The report declared there was no conspiracy, that Lee Harvey Oswald—he alone—murdered the President, November 22, 1963 in Dallas.

Regardless of what the jury finds, however, it is clear that New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison has done little to enlarge the work of the commission. The prosecution, its case now rested, trod over much the same ground that the report's critics—and the report itself—have.

To any one who has labored through the report and its 26 supporting volumes of testimony and evidence, there was little new. Many of Garrison's witnesses as to the events in Dallas were the commission's before him. Those who were not witnesses before the commission gave the Shaw trial the benefit of their opinions. But they produced few, if any, fresh facts.

Since entering the assassination case two years ago, Garrison has made many statements in interviews, news conferences and court records that promised, if true, to make the report worth little more than the 56 pounds of paper per complete set it is printed on.

Garrison has said "there were several plots" to kill Kennedy; that Oswald "never fired a shot;" that the President was killed by a "precision guerrilla team of at least seven men;" that "the involvement of high officials in the United States government in the affair becomes more and more apparent;" that "a number of men who killed the President were former employees of the CIA involved in its anti-Castro activities in the New Orleans area. The CIA knows their identity. So do I."

Garrison's office filed a document accusing Shaw of delivering money to Oswald and Jack Ruby, the night club owner who shot Oswald, at Baton Rouge in the fall of 1963. There were actually two Oswalds, Garrison said, the second being a decoy used to throw suspicion on the first and authentic one. "We believe," the district attorney said, "we have discovered his identity."

All these allegations point to conspiracy, whether or not Clay Shaw was involved. None of them figured in the prosecution's case. They remain what they were: allegations.

Instead Garrison took two approaches to prove conspiracy. One was to establish that Shaw, a 55-year-old businessman, had been seen and heard talking with Oswald and David Ferrie, a bizarre former airline pilot, now dead, who figures in the Warren report in that he once may have taught a boyhood friend of Oswald's in an air patrol course.

Perry Russo—not in the report—testified that he heard the three discussing the murder of the President but also said it could have been nothing more than "an inconsequential bull session." Russo said this had occurred at a party one night in the summer of 1963 at Ferrie's apartment. Oswald, he said, was unshaven. Oswald's widow, Marina, had told the commission—and repeated it at Shaw's trial—that the only night her husband was away from home was the occasion when he was arrested while distributing pro-Castro leaflets. No testimony before the commission ever mentioned Oswald as having been bearded.

Other witnesses testified they had seen Oswald and Shaw together that summer—one of them a drug addict who said he saw them just before he was about to give himself a fix—but they were not directly connected to Garrison's second approach. This was to establish that the fatal shots were fired from the so-called grassy knoll and not, as the commission found, the Texas School Book Depository where Oswald's gun and three spent shells were discovered.

Critics of the Warren Commission report, such as Mark Lane and Harold Weisberg, have made the same claim.

Garrison, for instance, called Mrs. Phillip Willis, a close eyewitness to the assassination, who told the Shaw trial she thought the fatal shot that hit the President's head threw his body backwards, suggesting—beyond argument—that the shot came from in front of the motorcade—the Knoll area—and not the Depository to the rear. The prosecution also repeatedly showed the movie taken by amateur photographer Abraham Zapruder which shows Kennedy recoiling backwards and down after the shot that shattered his head.

A pathologist, Dr. John M. Nichols of the University of Kansas, said after viewing the film the head wound could be "compatible with a gunshot having been delivered from the front." That was an opinion, but the best evidence—the autopsy photographs and X-rays of the dead President—was not released by the Justice Department in time for presentation in Garrison's case although the district attorney's subpoena of them had been upheld by a Washington, D.C. judge.

This would have been an important step in the controversy surrounding the report, for the commission itself—with a few possible exceptions: statements conflict—did not view the films and X-rays.

In contrast to Dr. Nichols was prosecution testimony from Lyndal L. Shaney, an FBI photography analyst, who told the court as he had the commission that a study of the Zapruder film convinced him the shots came from behind the President.

Shaney said his original examination did not take movements of the President's body into account. A number of conflicting theories have been advanced by the critics and supporters of the Warren report, but their adherents were not called by Garrison.

Another witness called by the prosecution to establish that Kennedy was caught in a cross-fire of assassins between the knoll and the Depository was Robert H. West, a survivor for Dallas County and an eyewitness of the assassination. He said he thought the shots came from the northwest quadrant of Dealey Plaza, an area that includes both the knoll and the Depository.

To argue that Oswald did not act alone, Garrison called Mrs. Carolyn Walther who repeated the statement she had given the FBI after the assassination that she had seen two men in a window of the Depository, one of them holding a gun.

Should Shaw's defense have chosen, however, it could have asked Mrs. Walther if she still "was positive," as she had been in talking to the FBI, that the window where she saw the two men was not as high as the sixth floor, the level at which police found the rifle and shells.

And the defense could call Mrs. Pearl Springer a friend of Mrs. Walther's who had gone along with her that day to watch the motorcade and who told the commission's investigators that Mrs. Walther "did not mention to her anything about seeing a man standing in a window of (the Depository) holding a rifle."

And the defense could call Mrs. Willis's husband, a retired Air Force major who was standing near her that day and told the Warren Commission he "felt certain" the shots came from "high up" in the Depository.

Garrison did draw testimony from Roger Craig—as had the commission—that he had seen a man run from the Depository shortly after the assassination and drive off in a stationwagon with another man. Craig, then a deputy sheriff and now employed by an automobile dealer who was one of a group of businessmen who helped finance Garrison's investigation of Shaw, said he later identified the man as Oswald when he saw him in the office of Dallas police captain Will Fritz.

Again, the defense could call Fritz who denied central parts of Craig's testimony to the commission.

Indeed, Garrison could have called an almost endless number of witnesses to testify as to the many ambiguities and conflicts that lie inside the Warren report. He chose not to, whatever his reasons.

Some day the Warren report may have an intensive hearing in court. It did not get it from Garrison in New Orleans.

Fuzzy . . .

dersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach spelled it out Nov. 13.

The United States, Katzenbach said, undertook to stop all bombings and "all other acts involving the use of force." He said this phrase was used because U.S. reconnaissance flights did not involve force.

These then are the known essential ingredients: Bombardment of the North would stop and the allied side would accept the Viet Cong at the peace table if Hanoi would:

—Agree to expanded talks.
—Accept the presence of the Saigon government.

—Not take military advantage of the bombing halt.

—Not shell the cities or violate the DMZ.

—Understand the U.S. need to continue reconnaissance.

Just how much the Hanoi government actually did agree to, and how much of Johnson's "understanding" was unilateral, has never been clear.

The North Vietnamese did come to the table and did allow participation of the South. Several reconnaissance planes were shot down in the early weeks after the bombing halt, but none has been reported down since. It is clear, however, that "the understanding" is a flexible instrument.

The Pentagon reports some 2,000 "indications of enemy presence" in the DMZ since Oct. 31, plus 69 "significant" instances of enemy fire from within the DMZ on American units south of the line.

On Nov. 9-12 enemy rockets fell on 30 provincial centers and towns and U.S. positions from the DMZ.

Special Award Presented To Charles Smith

C. G. Smith, 145 Montclair Ave., was presented an award for meritorious service by the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers during a special dinner at the Pickaway Arms.

This award recognizes Mr. Smith's outstanding work and responsible leadership in the field of engineering and Society advancement. Smith served as vice president, secretary, treasurer, two-term president, director of Southern Ohio Society and trustee to Ohio Society of Professional Engineers.

The award was presented by John Wackendorf a professional engineer with the Cincinnati Planning Commission and also vice president of the Ohio Society.

2 Boys Returned To Institute

Two juveniles who walked away from Orient State Institute were apprehended by State Highway Patrolman R. L. Daub, Tuesday.

Daub spotted the two juveniles about 12:30 p.m. in the area of the intersection of Route 56 and Circleville-Tarleton Road. The two boys were returned to the institute.

times to drive the enemy out but failed, with severe casualties.

American helicopter gunships blasted the village repeatedly, and much of it was a shambles. Some of the houses were burning. Virtually all of the civilians fled before the gunship strikes.

The Viet Cong, however, were holding on and were well armed with machine guns and bazooka-type rockets.

At Cu Chi, the headquarters of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division 20 miles northwest of Saigon, 60 to 80 troops of the North Vietnamese 5th Division slipped undetected through the base's barbed wire perimeter about 4 a.m. and ran up and down the air strip, planting explosive charges on the big helicopters and firing rocket-propelled grenades at the surprised defenders.

AP photographer Rick Merron reported the North Vietnamese, wearing khaki and green uniforms and carrying explosives on their backs, blew up a dozen giant cargo-carrying Chinook helicopters worth about $12 million. Merron said 14 Americans were killed and 50 wounded in a hail of rockets, grenades and small arms fire.
